

LETTERS

TO

GLOBAL

WATER

Dear Global Water,

We had a project fair. There were many projects to look at and I liked the Global Water project. They told me about how it works and how it helps the kids that need water. When the people drink dirty water, they would get sick and won't live that long. I know that Global Water is trying to help those people. I heard that if people don't have enough water they can't survive.

The other thing that I liked about Global Water is that they helps people with no water. I feel really sorry for them because I sometimes waste water. But when I think of those people I feel I won't do that any more. I like it because it makes me do the right thing I won't waste water again!

Sincerely,
Jina

Dear Global Water,

My classmates and I have worked really hard because we had to run for one hour and thirty minutes, and we raised just over eight hundred dollars. When I was running it was fun. I thought of it like a competition so I worked extra hard. I raised only eight dollars but every dollar helps a bit. To me it was like a great experience of how people wake up and carry dirty water back and forth every day. When I was running my fifteenth lap, my legs started to hurt, but I said to myself my feet having pain was nothing compared to drinking dirty water and possibly dying. I hope all this money will go towards digging more wells so people will get cleaner water. I really hope all this money will help someone.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey